

OSCLG Cheris Kramarae Outstanding Dissertation Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for outstanding dissertations concerned with communication, language and gender completed between January 1, 2009 and June 1, 2010. Nominations must come from a faculty advisor; a nomination letter should be electronically submitted to the chair of the award committee by June 1, 2010. After a nomination is submitted by the faculty advisor, the nominated person should submit three copies of (1) a pdf of a self-authored summary of approximately 30 pages and (2) a pdf of the entire dissertation to Dr. Laura Ellingson, Santa Clara University (lellingson@scu.edu). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Outstanding Thesis Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for outstanding theses concerned with communication, language and gender completed between January 1, 2009 and December 31, 2009. Nominations must come from a faculty advisor; a nomination letter should be electronically submitted to the chair of the award committee by June 1, 2010. After a nomination is submitted by the faculty advisor, the nominated person should submit a pdf of the entire thesis to Dr. Stephanie Norander, Missouri State University (StephanieNorander@MissouriState.edu). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Outstanding Book Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender seeks nominations for the Outstanding Book Award. The committee will select one outstanding book concerned with communication, language and gender which was published during the 2008 or 2009 calendar year. Self-nominations are accepted; please note that a nominee can only be the first author on one submission. A brief letter nominating the book should be sent to the committee chair; and three copies of the book should be mailed, one to each of the committee members: Jimmie Manning, OSCLG Outstanding Book Award Committee Chair, 386 Science & Technology, Communication, Northern Kentucky University, Highland Heights, KY 41099 (manningj1@nku.edu); Katherine Denker, Communication Studies, David Letterman Communication and Media Building, Room 351, 2000 University Ave., Muncie, IN 47306; and Shannon L. Holland, Department of Communication Studies, 413 Strode Tower, Clemson University, Clemson, SC 29634-0533. The committee chair will mail verification that the nominated book has been received by all committee members and has entered the review process. Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Anita Taylor Outstanding Published Article or Chapter in an Anthology Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for outstanding articles or chapters in an anthology concerned with communication, language and gender published between January 1, 2009 and December 31, 2009. Self-nominations are accepted; please note that a nominee can only be the first author on one submission. Send the letter of nomination and a pdf of the nominated article or chapter to: Dr. Robyn Remke, Copenhagen Business School, Department of Intercultural Communication and Management (rr.ikl@cbs.dk). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Creative Expression Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for outstanding pieces of creative expression—such as artwork in any medium, multi-media project, collection of poetry, work of fiction, or other creative form—that embodies themes of communication, language, and gender. Nominated works must be those that have been shared with others in a formal outlet such as publication or display as part of a juried show between January 1, 2009 and December 31, 2009. Theses and dissertations are not eligible to be nominated for this award. If possible, three copies (or photographs) of the work should be submitted to the committee chair. Please do not send original artwork. Self-nominations are accepted; please contact the committee chair with questions regarding suitability for nomination and/or logistical issues with submission. Committee chair: Dr. Nicole Defenbaugh, Bloomsburg University, Communication Studies and Theatre Arts, MCHS#1142, Bloomsburg, PA 17815 (ndefenba@bloomu.edu). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Outstanding Conference Paper Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for outstanding conference papers concerned with communication, language and gender presented at a regional, national, or international conference between January 1, 2009 and December 31, 2009. Self-nominations are accepted; please note that a nominee can only be the first author on one submission. Send the letter of nomination and the nominated conference paper via email to: Dr. Renee Houston, University of Puget Sound (rhouston@pugetsound.edu). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Outstanding Undergraduate Paper or Creative Project Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for outstanding undergraduate papers or projects concerned with communication, language and gender completed between January 1, 2000 and May 1, 2010. Nominations must come from a faculty advisor; the letter of nomination and the nominated paper or project should be sent via pdf or other e-mail attachment to: Marie Thompson, Ohio University (mt336902@ohio.edu). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.

OSCLG Feminist Teacher-Mentor Award

The Organization for the Study of Communication, Language, and Gender (OSCLG) seeks nominations for its annual Feminist Teacher-Mentor Award. The committee will select one exemplary feminist teacher-mentor who has inspired students and colleagues by modeling feminist ideals of caring, community power-sharing, and commitment while also earning individual and collaborative records of achievement. Nominations are encouraged among academic ranks (to include all levels of professor, adjunct faculty, graduate students, or instructors). The award process involves two stages. At the first stage, the potential feminist teacher-mentor is nominated by letter by a student(s) or colleague(s). The second stage involves additional support and a statement from the nominee; details of this process will be provided by the Committee Chair upon receipt of a nomination. Send the first-stage letter of nomination to the Committee Chair via email: Dr. Cerise L. Glenn, University of North Carolina at Greensboro (clglenn@uncg.edu). Deadline for submissions is June 1, 2010.